Date: 25th October, 2018

Venue: Marigold, India Habitat Centre, New Delhi, 110003, India

There is an increasing recognition for the need to incorporate gender concerns effectively into climate policy in India. This workshop intends to initiate a dialogue around integrating gender concerns effectively into the mitigation landscape of India in line with our Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs). We also hope to create a platform to discuss pertinent questions around the thematic in order to gauge experiences, thoughts and ideas from practitioners, academicians, and government officials alike.
